Q: How to use procs in Rails I'm a newbie trying to convert a rails app from ROR2.2 to 3.2 I have this code class

BookingsController params[:page],
:per_page => 15) #search params.. end def
create params = build_params #stuff to check.. #book_times = BookTime.where(book_id:
params[:book_id]) #.. #@book_time =
BookTime.create(params[:book_time]) #..
#if @book_time.save # flash[:notice] =

"Booked" # redirect_to root_path #else #
render 'new' #end end def new @booking =
Booking.new @rooms = Room.all end

The old ror way worked but it requires me to create custom model methods for all of the methods listed above. This seems like a waste of time. I was told to use Procs What is the best way to do this? I'm still learning and I don't know the difference between a proc and a method. A: Basically, the difference between methods and procs in rails is that methods work on instances, and procs work on class level variables. So you should be able to rewrite your methods into procs pretty easily, or even just change all instances of `Booking.new` to `Booking.new`. Take this example: `class FakeBooking def some_method # do something end end # re-write this: class FakeBooking def some_method "This is a fake`

Speedmaster Omega Seamaster SE Formula 1 Racing Chronograph Watch It's been a while since I've had a model that I can actually show you with a strap on my wrist. The Speedmaster Omega hasn't been one of these watches for a while. I know. I am enjoying the return to the styling of my Omega Speedmaster Classic. The profile and look of the model has always been one of my favorites, along with its 6 o'clock crown and gold tone bracelet. It is a combination that I see as the epitome of classic. The Speedmaster Omega Seamaster Formula 1 Racing Chronograph Watch comes in a steel chronograph case with a round, baton like pusher at 6 o'clock. The brushed stainless steel lugs are the same as those on the watch from the 1970s and 1980s, but they have been re-polished. The shiny surface is the side that you are looking at once the watch is worn on a wrist. The bezel is also a steel structure and has a brushed finish. The bands are available in a wide range of metals and finishes, and often are combined with different materials. The alligator strap with the buttons is the one featured on this watch. It is similar to the ones used by many racing teams, although not exactly like them. The Speedmaster Omega Seamaster Formula 1 Racing Chronograph Watch has blue and orange dials in contrast to its steel case and bracelet, and black markers. The time with a minute track is always visible, and is interrupted by black racing-style numbers at the bottom. Time is counted in hours and minutes. The chronograph is operated by a push-piece at 6 o'clock. The second is indicated by blue Arabic numerals and is set by a small pusher at 12 o'clock. The crown at 9 o'clock is a design that is considered by many to be an iconic part of the watch. The crown also has an additional feature that is a rarity. The color of the metal can be changed by using the interchangeable top pusher, which is held in place by 7 removable screws.
