Canofile For Windows 2.5 Downloa Link Download Here: Download File: Canofile For Windows 2.5 DownloaQ: Processing a window of data My application reads the data of all ports and calculates rates with $(T1/T2) / (P1/P2)$. I did not understand the concept of window. Someone can clarify me? A: That's not windows, it's a sliding window. You have a chunk of data, and take a snapshot of it every so often. That can be any size, but in some cases a bigger size is better. A larger window will give a more stable average. A smaller window will give a less stable average. In your case, you have T1, P1 and P2 for each instance of the operation and you are using the mean of the results, in order to get a more stable average. e
