Angiomas of the parotid region are rare lesions and only a few cases of such lesions are reported. We present two cases of parotid angiomas. The first case presented as a swelling and pain in the right parotid region, with the age at onset being 20 years. The computed tomographic scan and magnetic resonance imaging of the lesion showed hypervascularity of the parotid mass. The second case presented with a complaint of difficulty in swallowing. The computed tomographic scan and magnetic resonance imaging revealed a cystic mass in the right parotid region. We believe that angiomas of the parotid gland should be considered in the differential diagnosis of lesions of this region. The successful treatment of such cases is surgical excision.Q: Is it possible to buy the full set of Golden Axe franchise items? The original and modernized graphics of the first Golden Axe, for example, will make it difficult for the blind or the eyes of old age to appreciate it. What's new:

/ Speeding Bullets I'm still pitching my first, and only, man-made-space-ship - the H-16 Hoveround. You can read a short description of it here on my website. If you haven't seen it before, it looks a little bit like a Jet Ski, on steroids, with an enclosed cockpit and a very smooth-outboard design. That's the theory, anyway, and for what it's worth, it does look considerably nicer in reality. I've been hitting the clubs in order to promote and sell the thing, and oh my, they sell! In spite of the fact that I can only afford to have one to sell at a time, the demand is overwhelming. Since that's the answer to my problems of how to generate a living so that I can actually finish the novels I'm working on - and since those novels are better suited for cyberspace release, I'm now looking into another way to establish a presence on the Net to network with other writers' websites. The more websites, the better (and the more writers there are, the more interesting places for me to visit!). If you have a few hours to kill and a heart of gold, I think you'll find a lot of ideas worth visiting at the following sites: The Big Picture The Human Engineering Approach Choose Wisely Between This and That Real Space Adventures From Away The Big Cha-Cha-Cha Mag! Out of the Can The Fun Society The World of Ansek Universal College of Terranauts I'll list them here so you can give any one of them a visit yourself and decide: BPLR Forum The Future Space Transmission System One thing that emerged from this latest foot-ball game was that our referees really don't know what they're doing out there on the soccer field. Turnovers, called yellow on this deuce - in fact, a good part of both play and referee decisions were calling yellow for fouls in which no foul was committed. It was very funny. Anyway, the game went into overtime, and end result was that we won, and since it was our first game after the long August break, our first in something like two years, a bit of a party started in the parking lot. That, coupled with Sputnik's passing overhead, and, of course, the UFOs which made a quadruple appearance in our front yard, was a perfect mixture of celebration and despair. We all knew we had to stop celebrating before Black Forest Fire Department arrived to fogh

And a bit of all that makes up the culture of rock 'n' roll. You are currently browsing the archives for the blog Kitsch&Culture. Have you met Sid and Nancy or know them personally? 30.5.10 Kitsch&Culture™ review: The Young and the Dead The Young and the Dead plays in stark contrast with the typical Hard Rock, Surf, or Punk Rock music I've heard a lot of late. More like The Wild World of Love... and the many varieties of Saucer-Humanoids it might have blended with.
