The problem is that they are not stored correctly. After querying them to the database, the database gives a syntax error. I do not use unserialize() or serialize() functions. I just want to store arrays to the database (I am using PDO). This is the query I'm trying to send to the database: INSERT INTO to_trasfer (date, team_id, first_player_id, second_player_id, goals_for, goals_against) VALUES ('$date','$teamin','$first_player_id','$second_player_id','$goals_for','$goals_against'); The date is already sent to the database, when I query the database. I am able to get the team_id and the first_player_id, but I always get 'Array' as my second and third parameters in the query. I also tried to send the whole thing like this: INSERT INTO to_trasfer (date, team_id, first_player_id, second_player_id, goals_for, goals_against) VALUES ('$date','$teamin','$first_player_id','$second_player_id','$goals_for','$goals_against'); but I still get the same results. This is how my arrays looks: Array ([2] => Array ([1] => ARRAY [9] => 1.21544 [24] => 2.05556 [36] => 1.99111 [46] => 0.11111 [73] => 0 [80] => 0
