Sentence Equivalence will be on test day - you will have 60 minutes to answer 2 Sentence Equivalence questions. The trick to these questions is to read through the 6 choices carefully for any similarities or connections. You should have roughly 60 seconds per question, so leave around 5-6 minutes to complete the test. You have 60 minutes to answer 5 Sentence Equivalence questions. For this first Sentence Equivalence question, answer choices A, B, C, and E are all correct. The prompt matches phrase B with phrase D, and helps you check your word selection. The correct answer, in this case, is D. If a correct response were off-topic, it would not appear in the answer choices. You can see that this Sentence Equivalence question is only about the word choices, and the correct answer is clearly picked from that. Sentence Equivalence questions will almost always give you the answer within the first 4 or 5 choices. After that, you'll need to read and think more carefully about the choices. Chances are, they'll be somewhat similar to one another. The answer choice A is wrong because this question is asking about the verb incentives. The answer choice B is wrong because this question is about a noun, not an adjective. The answer choice C is wrong because this question is about a noun (not an adjective) and about a verb, not the verb the word is completing. All of the GRE grammar questions are based on Conventions of English. The conventions of English are basically a set of rules that govern what is grammatical, and what is not, in an English sentence. A sentence is grammatically correct if it follows the conventions of English. So in order to pass this section of the test, you just need to become familiar with the rules, and then you can use these rules to choose the correct word in the context of a particular Sentence Equivalence question.

A) Each year hundreds of the worlds languages go extinct, once there are no longer any native speakers remaining. B) Many languages have words that virtually overlap in the meaning they convey. C) The range of concepts and emotional states is the only indication of a languages thoroughness. Click here for the answer and explanation Answer: D Prepositional modifiers express relationships that exist between the item they modify and the item they modify. The relationships expressed in a preposition phrase, such as those expressed in a sentence like Get the most from your garden, are always between the item that the preposition is modifying and something else. This can be a word, a phrase, or some part of a noun phrase. A) Make sure you are ready to help your clients. B) Communication is essential to effective teamwork. C) The manager of the agency must be bright enough to deal with such matters. D) Purchase orders, received through appropriate channels, are generally timely. E) The system engineers must carry out projects in advance of schedule. Click here for the answer and explanation Grammar Check-In Grammar is the name of our test.
