How do I know if I have an X to Y juncture? Suppose I know the numbers $X=5$ and $Y=3$, and I want to find the number of junctures. How would I work out the number of junctures? A: Treat the pair (X,Y) as an ordered pair, with X as the first entry, and Y as the second entry. The first pair has $Y=3$, so you need to find the number of triples in $(1,3,2)$. The second pair has $X=5$, so you need the number of pairs of the form $(k,X+k)$ for $k \in \mathbb{N}$. Q: How to turn off auto-scroll Every time I navigate with the keyboard, my whole window gets scrolled. Is it possible to disable this? A: For some reason this had been bugging me for months. It turned out that I was calling `self.textView.scrollToVisible(newRange)` in the text view's `UITextViewDelegate` methods. I also have a custom subclass of `UITableView` that reuses cells. When the cell gets reused, it causes the text view's scrolling to be reset. Adding `self.textView.scrollToVisible(newRange)` to my `dealloc` method solved the problem. if let string = self.string { self.textView.scrollToVisible(NSMakeRange(string.startIndex, string.length))

self.textView.textStorage.append(string) } A: I just realised there is a `scrollToTop` method of `UITextView` Shelley Cory-Holloway, a 29-year-old media trainer, was an accidental activist for the cause.
